

To whom i may concern, Indiana state regulation regarding telephone soliciting has been a godsend since it's enactment. When deciding on national regulation of telephone sales, please let the state of Indiana decide for it's self. Prior to it's adoption, there wasn't a day that went by that we did not recieve some type of solicitation by phone. Since then we have not recieved any. This is a very comforting feeling to know that the process working, and confident that it will continue to work. We have no apprehensions of picking up the telephone and discovering a telephone salesperson on the end of the line. Please consider this comment.
